

Humanitarian Assistance in Sudan

Humanitarian assistance in Sudan is provided through the Sudanese authorities, United Nations agencies, international NGOs, national NGOs, community-based organizations, women-led organizations, religious institutions, medical organizations, and local volunteer networks.

Assistance may include food, emergency cash, drinking water, sanitation, shelter, healthcare, medicines, vaccination, nutrition treatment, education, family tracing, legal assistance, protection from violence, psychosocial support, and services for refugees, returnees, and internally displaced people.

The availability of assistance depends on security conditions, funding, location, road access, administrative approval, eligibility requirements, and the presence of humanitarian organizations or local partners.

The contact details in this document are fictional test contacts created for demonstration and RAG testing. They must not be used to request real assistance.

United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs

The United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, known as OCHA, coordinates humanitarian planning and information in Sudan.

OCHA monitors humanitarian needs, displacement, access restrictions, funding, emergency developments, and the activities of humanitarian partners. It supports coordination between Sudanese authorities, UN agencies, NGOs, donors, and local organizations.

OCHA publishes humanitarian situation reports, response plans, funding updates, emergency alerts, and information about humanitarian access.

Website: <https://www.unocha.org/sudan>

Humanitarian information portal: <https://response.reliefweb.int/sudan>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2001

Email: sudan.ocha@example.org

Office: Humanitarian Coordination Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees

The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, known as UNHCR, protects refugees, asylum-seekers, internally displaced people, returnees, and stateless people.

UNHCR may support refugee registration, documentation, shelter, protection monitoring, legal assistance, family reunification, assistance to returnees, community-based protection, and referrals to specialized services.

UNHCR also coordinates refugee responses in countries receiving people fleeing Sudan, including Chad, Egypt, South Sudan, Ethiopia, Libya, and the Central African Republic.

Website: <https://www.unhcr.org/sudan>

Sudan situation portal: <https://data.unhcr.org/en/situations/sudansituation>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2002

Email: sudan.unhcr@example.org

Office: Refugee and Displacement Protection Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

World Food Programme

The World Food Programme, known as WFP, provides emergency food assistance, cash support, nutrition services, school meals, logistics, and support for food security.

WFP may assist displaced households, communities affected by famine or food insecurity, children suffering from malnutrition, pregnant and breastfeeding women, and families affected by conflict, drought, or flooding.

Website: <https://www.wfp.org/countries/sudan>

WFP assistance is usually delivered through approved programmes and local partners. Distribution points, registration procedures, and eligibility criteria may change depending on security conditions and available funding.

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2003

Email: sudan.wfp@example.org

Office: Food Security and Emergency Assistance Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

United Nations Children's Fund

The United Nations Children's Fund, known as UNICEF, focuses on children, mothers, and families affected by conflict and displacement.

Its programmes include vaccination, child health, nutrition, education, water and sanitation, birth registration, family tracing, child protection, and support for children affected by armed groups and displacement.

UNICEF supports children at risk of recruitment, abduction, family separation, sexual violence, forced marriage, trafficking, exploitation, disease, and severe malnutrition.

Website: <https://www.unicef.org/sudan>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2004

Email: sudan.unicef@example.org

Office: Child Protection and Emergency Services Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

World Health Organization

The World Health Organization, known as WHO, supports disease surveillance, vaccination campaigns, emergency health services, outbreak response, health-facility support, medicines, and public-health planning.

WHO-related emergency work in Sudan includes responses to cholera, measles, malaria, acute malnutrition, maternal-health emergencies, child-health conditions, and conflict-related injuries.

Website: <https://www.who.int/countries/sudan>

A person facing a life-threatening medical emergency should seek the nearest functioning hospital, clinic, ambulance provider, or trained health worker. WHO primarily supports health systems and emergency coordination and may not directly treat every individual.

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2005

Email: sudan.who@example.org

Office: Public Health Emergency Coordination Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

International Committee of the Red Cross

The International Committee of the Red Cross, known as the ICRC, works in situations affected by armed conflict and violence.

Its activities may include protecting civilians, visiting detainees where access is available, restoring contact between separated family members, supporting healthcare services, assisting vulnerable communities, recovering the remains of the dead, and promoting international humanitarian law.

Website: <https://www.icrc.org/en/where-we-work/africa/sudan>

The ICRC is a neutral humanitarian organization. It is not a military force, immigration authority, police service, or court.

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2006

Email: sudan.icrc@example.org

Office: Civilian Protection and Family Links Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

International Organization for Migration

The International Organization for Migration, known as IOM, supports internally displaced people, migrants, refugees, returnees, and communities affected by displacement.

Its work may include displacement tracking, emergency shelter, camp coordination, water and sanitation, protection referrals, support for returnees, transportation assistance, livelihoods, and reintegration.

Website: <https://sudan.iom.int>

Global country information: <https://www.iom.int/countries/sudan>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2007

Email: sudan.iom@example.org

Office: Migration and Displacement Support Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

International Rescue Committee

The International Rescue Committee, known as IRC, provides emergency assistance to people affected by conflict, displacement, poverty, and disasters.

Its activities may include healthcare, women's protection, child protection, education, water and sanitation, emergency shelter, livelihoods, cash assistance, and support for survivors of gender-based violence.

Website: <https://www.rescue.org/country/sudan>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2008

Email: sudan.irc@example.org

Office: Emergency Protection and Health Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Médecins Sans Frontières

Médecins Sans Frontières, also known as Doctors Without Borders, provides emergency medical care in conflict and disaster areas.

Its activities may include trauma care, surgery, treatment of infectious diseases, maternal healthcare, child healthcare, nutrition treatment, vaccination, and support for hospitals and clinics.

Website: <https://www.msf.org/sudan>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2009

Email: sudan.msf@example.org

Office: Emergency Medical Response Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Norwegian Refugee Council

The Norwegian Refugee Council supports refugees, internally displaced people, returnees, and communities affected by conflict and disasters.

Its programmes may include emergency shelter, education, food security, livelihoods, legal assistance, information counselling, protection, and support for people affected by displacement.

Website: <https://www.nrc.no/countries/africa/sudan/>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2010

Email: sudan.nrc@example.org

Office: Refugee Assistance and Legal Support Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Save the Children

Save the Children supports children and families through education, health, nutrition, child protection, livelihoods, food security, and emergency assistance.

Its programmes may assist children affected by displacement, malnutrition, family separation, interrupted schooling, exploitation, sexual violence, forced marriage, and poverty.

Website: <https://www.savethechildren.net/what-we-do/where-we-work/africa/sudan>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2011

Email: sudan.savethechildren@example.org

Office: Child and Family Emergency Support Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Sudanese Red Crescent Society

The Sudanese Red Crescent Society is a national humanitarian organization associated with the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement.

Its activities may include first aid, emergency healthcare, disaster response, support to vulnerable communities, relief distribution, ambulance services, public-health assistance, and community preparedness.

Website: <https://www.ifrc.org/national-societies-directory/sudanese-red-crescent-society>

Contact Information

Telephone: +249 91 000 2012

Email: sudan.redcrescent@example.org

Office: Emergency Relief and First Aid Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Assistance for Gender-Based Violence

A person affected by rape, sexual violence, forced marriage, domestic violence, sexual exploitation, trafficking, or another form of abuse may require medical, psychosocial, legal, and protection assistance.

Possible sources of support include health facilities, women-led organizations, GBV service centres, humanitarian protection partners, community protection workers, legal-aid organizations, and trusted local authorities.

Medical care should be sought as soon as possible after sexual violence. Survivors should be treated with dignity and confidentiality. They should not be blamed, pressured to disclose information, or forced to report an incident against their wishes.

Assistance for Children

Children affected by conflict may require medical care, nutrition support, education, family tracing, psychosocial assistance, and protection from recruitment, abduction, sexual violence, forced marriage, trafficking, and exploitation.

A child separated from a parent or caregiver should be referred to a recognized child-protection or family-tracing organization. The child's name, photograph, location, and personal information should not be shared publicly.

Assistance for Displaced People

Displaced people may require shelter, food, clean water, sanitation, healthcare, legal documentation, education, protection from eviction, and support to restore their livelihoods.

Displaced families should seek information from recognized humanitarian organizations, displacement-site representatives, government authorities, or local protection organizations.

People should be cautious of individuals demanding money, political support, military recruitment, or sexual favours in exchange for humanitarian assistance.

Emergency Safety

People facing immediate danger should move to a safer location if it is possible to do so safely. They should contact trusted local leaders, health facilities, humanitarian organizations, police services, or community protection structures.

People should avoid suspicious objects, active fighting areas, military installations, abandoned ammunition, unfamiliar checkpoints, and locations recently affected by armed attacks. Suspicious objects should never be touched, moved, or approached.

Sudan Police and Security Contacts

Sudan Police Force

Telephone: +249 91 000 4001

Email: police.sudan@example.org

Office: National Police Coordination Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Red Sea State Police

Telephone: +249 91 000 4002

Email: redsea.police@example.org

Office: Red Sea State Police Office, Port Sudan, Sudan

Sudan Civilian Protection Police

Telephone: +249 91 000 4003

Email: civilian.protection.sd@example.org

Office: Civilian Protection Desk, Port Sudan, Sudan